

Commencement 2021
QUINSIGAMOND COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Modern Scholars in Ancient Garb

The color and pageantry marking a college commencement is rooted in long tradition. Academic degrees have been awarded for more than 800 years, the first known being conferred by the University of Bologna in the twelfth century. The caps and gowns worn by the faculty and the graduating class are also inherited from early medieval universities. Scholars of those days wore the gown and its attached hood for the dual purpose of keeping warm in the drafty, unheated buildings, and of identifying the particular clerical order to which they belonged.

The Gown

The style of modern academic costume in America is based on an intercollegiate code established in 1895. The gown is commonly black, differing in type according to the level of the degree held. Gowns of foreign universities and a few American institutions are often of red or other brilliant hues.

The doctor's gown is paneled in velvet, and has bell-shaped sleeves, each trimmed with three matching velvet bars. The velvet may be black or of the color representing the field of learning in which the degree was earned. For example, the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) is designated by blue, for centuries the color associated with wisdom and truth. The Doctor of Theology (Th.D.) may be indicated by red, a traditional color of the church; and the Doctor of Jurisprudence (Jur.D.) by the royal purple of the King's Court. The title Doctor refers to the degree one holds, not to one's profession or occupation, and by ancient definition means an eminently learned person, one sufficiently skilled in any branch of knowledge to teach it.

Master's and bachelor's gowns have no trim. Sleeves of the Master's are extra long, and are open either at the forearm or the waist. Those of the bachelor's gowns are pointed and are normal sleeve length.

The Cap

The mortarboard cap is proper for all American degrees and is worn both indoors and out on all occasions when gowns are used. The tassel, worn over the left quarter of the cap, may be black or may be in a color representing the degree. Only holders of the degree of doctor may wear a gold tassel.

The Hood

The hood is the most striking feature of the academic costume; its shape, size, and colors show both the degree of the wearer and the college which conferred it, so that anyone attending an academic function in America can distinguish holders of bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees, and at the same time tell the university or college where it was obtained.

The shell or base of the hood is invariably of black material, but the lining is in the color of the college or university granting the degree. As the faculty and platform party march down the aisle at Commencement, the audience will see the official colors of many colleges and universities represented in the hoods of the participants.

The color of the border or edging of the hood designates the field of learning in which the degree was earned: for instance, white represents arts; scarlet - theology; golden yellow - science; blue - philosophy; pink - music; lemon - library sciences; brown - fine arts; purple - law; light blue - education; and drab - business administration.

The bachelor's hood has a two-inch border; the master's a three-inch one; and the doctor's a five-inch one. The size of the hood also helps identify the degree; the bachelor's hood is three feet long, the master's three and a half, and the doctor's four feet.

College trustees or members of boards are permitted to wear a doctor's gown, but the hood they wear must designate only the degree they actually hold. The president of the college is entitled to wear a specially designed costume.

Graduates of two-year colleges are awarded an Associate in Science or an Associate in Arts degree. Successful candidates for the associate degree wear a bachelor's gown without a hood.

Divisions of the Procession

The academic procession at Commencement is made up of three divisions. Usually, the first division is comprised of the candidates for degrees. The second division comprises members of the faculty. The third division includes the President of the College, the Commencement speaker, the trustees and other dignitaries or officers of the College.

The entire company is led by the Chief Marshal bearing a mace, originally a weapon of defense and a centuries-old symbol of academic authority.

A college or university commencement symbolizes the induction of the graduates into the guild of scholars, whose tradition reaches back through centuries of western civilization to include all those who have sought learning. Graduates, their families, and their friends can take pride in such an ancient and honorable rite.

National Anthem

The Star Spangled Banner

O say can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
O say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?
