The Stop the Bleed campaign was created by a federal emergency readiness program by the National Security Council Staff, The White House. The purpose of this campaign is to build national readiness to better prepare the public to react to a variety of emergencies of mass violence in ways that maximize survival, minimize emergency management and the impact on national disaster. Operations created by military, intelligence and emergency services have been identified as a critical element of the campaign. The information and materials are provided for informational purposes only. The Department of Homeland Security and the Department of Justice. Use of the information and materials does not guarantee that all bleeding will be stopped or that all lives will be saved.
