A.B. Webster's mother, Gloria was the first African-American woman to sue the Catholic Church. RESPECT and Love is a short 15 minute experimental documentary, in which the filmmaker sits down with her mother 30 years later to gain insight on how those experiences have shaped her mother's life.

Please join us as film director, A.B. Webster presents her film and discusses her film and story. Webster's first film as a director is getting recognized by film festival organizers and audiences and won the Audience Award at the Smithsonian African American Film Festival at the National Museum of African American History & Culture in Washington, D.C., an HBO Special Recognition Award at the BlackStar Film Festival and Best Short Documentary at the Montreal International Black Film Festival.

Persons in need of accommodation for this event are invited to contact Selina Boria by 11/1/19 at 508-854-4368, by email at sboria@qcc.mass.edu or by Sorenson video phone 508-502-7647
